The Rev. Cynthia A. Frado preaching

As we stand on the precipice of great changes in our country, there is much that we must reflect upon as we look toward the future. This is a very important Sunday for us to be together in community!

Sunday, November 13, 10:30 A.M. – The Soul of Freedom

The Reverend Cynthia A. Frado and friends

In honor of our veterans, our service today will speak to the heart and soul of those men and women who pledge to protect those freedoms that we oftentimes take for granted. This is going to be a collaborative service of great respect, reflection, and gratitude. We hope you can join us!

Sunday, November 20, 10:30 A.M. – The Transformative Power of a Grateful Heart

The Rev. Cynthia A. Frado preaching

As we, Americans, prepare for our national “holy” day of turkey, stuffing, and apple pie, let us pause and take a moment to consider the power of gratitude in our lives and how it can transform even the bleakest of moments. If you can join us, wonderful! If you will be traveling, we wish you safe travels.

Today is our Dedicated Offering Sunday.

Please note that the annual Interfaith Thanksgiving Service that is offered by the Amherst Area Clergy Group will be held this year on November 22, 2016 at the Methodist Church in Hadley (across from the UMass horse barns. 7:00 P.M.)

Sunday, November 27, 10:30 A.M. – Earth’s Crammed with Heaven

A service offered by the Sunday Services Committee and written by The Rev. Cindy Frado

As autumn begins to wane, today’s service and sermon will be an homage to the season, and all that it has to teach us about our own brilliance. If you have returned from all your holiday travels, consider joining us for this lovely service that speaks to heart of every season.

Musings from the Interim Minister’s Inkwell

Earth’s Blessings

I am writing this reflection on a glorious autumn day, here in New England. This afternoon I had the privilege of officiating at a Pagan Hand-fasting (wedding ceremony) on the top of Mount Tom. I had never been on the mountain, and entering the State Reservation was a totally magical experience.

I first encountered a lake of sparkling peacefulness. It was a welcome oasis after having endured several miles of spotty road construction sites. I could feel all the stress of the day melt away as I contemplated the shimmering water. Oh, how I wished that I could linger just a few moments longer! Alas, love and hope were waiting for me on the mountaintop.

As I meandered up the two-mile road, I was showered with golden leaves and rays of sunshine illuminating the landscape around me. I marveled at the rock cliffs and ravines, the maples, oaks, ash and birch trees that stood as vibrantly colored sentinels on either side of me. A younger, healthier version of myself longed to be hiking to the highest crest, feeling the earth beneath my feet and touching rocks and trees along the way. At the very least, I felt very blessed to be invited into this wondrous place, Suburu and all. My surroundings reminded me of Elizabeth Barrett Browning’s poem, Earth’s crammed with heaven, And every common bush afire with God; But only he who sees, takes off his shoes. The rest sit round it and pluck blackberries.

The wedding was intimate (bride, groom, son and me), very sweet and deeply profound, and the mountain...the mountain held us with its strength, enveloped us with its aliveness, and surrounded us with its beauty. It was a transcendent moment in the midst of an otherwise ordinary day that I will not soon forget.

As we move into the month of November, I wish you many transcendent moments in the midst of the ordinariness of your days, where love and hope lift you up. I wish you places of beauty and peace and wonder that call you into a deeper aliveness, that you might become more present to your life. I wish you mountains of strength and shimmering waters and showers of golden light to calm your soul.

In all the seasons of our lives, the earth blesses us and grounds us and reminds us that we are part of the miraculous web of life. May we receive it all with gratitude.

Happy November and safe Thanksgiving travels...

Rev. Cindy

Dedicated Offerings

Dedicated Offerings provide a way for our Unitarian Universalist Society of Amherst community to recognize and financially support worthy organizations engaged in projects that reflect our guiding Unitarian-Universalist principles.

On one Sunday every month (except for June, July, and August) we schedule a Dedicated Offering (DO), recognizing that our Society needs our support on the other Sundays of the month. Dedicated Offerings are suggested by both individuals and committees of the Society, and the program is managed by the Minister and the Dedicated Offering Committee.

A form for you to suggest a Dedicated Offering recipient is available in the office. Our goal is to cover a wide range of areas of need in our area and in the larger world, including these categories: local, regional, national, international, environmental, medical, educational, animal rights, arts/music/culture, and different ages and genders.

Thank you for showing your support for the Dedicated Offering program, not only with your contributions to the DO recipients themselves, but also with your contributions to the Society on other Sundays when our budget counts on those receipts. Remember that no one is required to contribute to our Dedicated Offering recipients – this is a voluntary initiative.

On October 16, we collected $888.16 for the New England Learning Center for Women in Transition (NELCWIT).

The November Dedicated offering will be collected on November 20 for the Planned Parenthood League of Massachusetts.

Almost exactly 100 years ago, on October 16, 1916, Margaret Sanger and two colleagues opened the first birth-control clinic in the United States, in Brooklyn. They were, of course, arrested on obscenity charges, but the opening of that clinic can be considered as the founding of Planned Parenthood, known as the American Birth Control League until 1942. The mission of Planned Parenthood is “to protect sexual and reproductive health and freedom of choice by providing clinical services, education and advocacy.”

Kate Sacco, Manager of Planned Parenthood’s Springfield Health Center, will attend the service on November 20 to explain briefly the role of Planned Parenthood and why our support is very much needed.

Open Minds and Open Hearts: A message from the staff

The staff at UUSA is working hard to create a new ministry team. Blending our strengths and talents as we enter this new year has been exciting as we continue to get to know one another. Our top priority is to serve YOU! To that end, we ask for your patience as we try and meet all the challenges and changes of a new ministry.

We also welcome your ideas, suggestions, and needs. Of course we cannot guarantee that we will be able to incorporate all of them, but we do want you to know that we WELCOME your thoughts.

We are constantly evaluating our work as we go along. The beginning of the year has included extra rituals in our worship services which has caused them to be longer than usual, and we fully expect that we will fall into a more reasonable timeframe now that those are behind us. With each passing day it feels like we are getting more into the rhythm of the church year.

So please, reach out to us! Praise, suggestions, concerns, we would like to know what is on your mind.

Rev. Cindy, Interim Minister; Rebecca, DRE; Brenda, Music Dir.; Judy, Admin.; David, Sexton (Joe Flueckiger, Board President, too).

Religious Education Ministry

As we come into the cold and darker time of late fall, let us remember those who are not as well fed, those who are not as warm, and those who need friendship. This time of the year is challenging for many different reasons and it is up to communities like ours to look around at the people we know and those we don't and offer support. At the end of October, I took a Mental Health Training. During the training, we watched a series of videos that featured a man who is now traveling around the country telling people how to better help people with mental health issues. He said that when he was in crisis if just one person had asked him, "Are you OK? Can I help you?" he would have chosen a much less painful path. So if you see someone in pain, offer to help or offer to get help. Let us be present for each other and our community.

YoUUrS,
Rebecca

Coming of Age within the Unitarian Universalist Faith

Throughout history, faith communities have welcomed youth on the cusp of adulthood with rituals of recognition, honor, and celebration. The training that leads up to coming of age is intended to help youth solidify the value systems or creeds of their heritage.

As Unitarian Universalists, we understand that revelation is not sealed and therefore have no creed to tie our children to one way of thinking. Instead, we covenant to affirm and promote the free and responsible search for truth and meaning throughout our lives.

The values and philosophies of living that govern our children’s lives are of their own making, handcrafted with the loving aid of adults who are willing to listen, to share stories, and to model right relations.

We recognize that although faith development is lifelong, our teenage years are an especially good time to hone our explicit understanding of personal values. Teenagers face the constant challenge (and opportunity) inherent in decision making. We do not want our children slaves to peer and cultural pressure, but instead want them free to be who they are with respect and responsibility to themselves and to others.

The coming of age program we use at the UUSA helps participants define and embrace personal faith expression. It also exposes youth to an appreciation of Unitarian Universalist heritage and identity. We incorporate the following important subjects outlined by the Rev. James Luther Adams, the pre-eminent UU liberal religious thinker of the 20th century. The editors of Beacon Press condensed and simplified five of Adams’ essays into a metaphor that quantifies liberal religion: five smooth stones (a reference to David and Goliath, 1 Samuel 17):

1. Revelation is unsealed (Learn)
2. We are in relationship with each other (Love)
3. We are morally obliged to seek justice (Give)
4. People make good things happen (Work)
5. We strive for an attitude of ultimate optimism (Hope)

Different from most UU Coming of Age programs, this program explores daily spiritual practice, recognizing that peace and solace and possibly transcendence are available to each of us, despite our circumstances, if we can find methods to rise above the chaos of daily life and enter a plane of calm.

Layered on top of these ideas is a metaphorical journey away from and back to home. Parents participate in a small group ministry that alternates in focus between parenting an adolescent and exploring Unitarian Universalism. Parents and children together participate in a ritual opening and closing of the program witnessed by the congregation, the community of faith.

This program also develops a ritualized common ground of worship and routine meant to foster familiarity and thereby comfort. The youth who participate in this program are likely to remember the rituals of the program and, with luck, will recall the experience with warmth and happiness.

This is a nine-month program for children ages 12-14. This year we have 16 young participants. Glen Bertrand, Karen Fisk, and Karen Mack are mentors, and a number of adults are helping throughout the year with spiritual practice: Casey Attebery, Rev. Cindy Frado, Sue Kelsey, Adrie Lester, Steve and Susan Rice, Polly Peterson, and Lesley Smith.

At the same time the Coming of Agers are meeting, Lisa Cyr is facilitating a parents group which alternates between faith discernment sessions and parenting adolescents sessions.

Goals of the Program

- Each youth will create a credo, or personal faith statement, which they will present to the congregation at the end of the church year.
- Youth will bond in a peer group which could provide a foundation for ongoing youth programming and support.
- Youth and adult mentors will connect through values and faith discernment.
- Youth and parents will better understand Unitarian Universalist heritage and identity.
- Youth will become familiar with the rituals of worship and of gathering in community.
- Youth will explore spiritual practices with the hope that one or more will resonate as a life-long practice for solace.
- Youth will be seen and heard in our congregation.
- The church community will support their youth and the caregivers of the youth through sacred ritual within worship.
- Adults of the faith community will support the growth of the youth through volunteering as spiritual-practice mentors.
- Parents will bond with other parents of adolescents and embrace the changes inherent in growing children hope and celebration.

Fundraising

Easy UUSA Fundraiser! Calling all those who grocery shop! Here's a way to help the UUSA earn money just by buying your groceries. We will be selling Big Y and Stop & Shop gift cards at Social Hour. The grocery stores sell gift cards to our Society at a small discount and then we sell them to you at face value. Because we buy the cards at a discount, we earn the difference between what we buy them for and what we sell them for.

The hardest part for you will be forming the habit of bringing your checkbook to services! There you can buy $50 or $100 gift cards for either store and use them like cash. You don't have to use the whole value at once.

We will have Big Y cards by the time you read this article, and Stop & Shop cards shortly after, so please plan to participate in this painless fundraiser. Get in the habit of buying all your Stop & Shop and Big Y purchases using gift cards you buy at the UUSA.

Thanks!

Green Sanctuary

Green Sanctuary Committee report on another successful Connecticut River clean-up

On a Saturday in September, Steve Rice, Sophie and Pete Rogers, Carolyn Cave, Anne Perkins, Darcy Dumont, Ron and Louise Grosslein, Katie Rice, Bo Mack, Karen Fisk and Glen Bertrand and the UUSA Youth Group and Coming of Age Group met at the Connecticut River and collected trash from five or six areas near the water.

Sites we've worked on regularly for some years were much better this time around, with the usual bottles and cans (which we mostly recycled) but much less household trash and construction debris than usual.

hands for a job well done!

The exception was a new site recently discovered, which the Youth Group and Coming of Age crew tackled, that yielded huge tires, lots of metal, and even large chunks of an old car, in addition to lots of smaller trash. Congratulations to all

Louise and Ron did some tire hunting by canoe earlier in the month, fishing 15 tires from the water in two days. With Andy Fisk's help, we took these up to Greenfield to the trash collection center and lunch celebration party at the Green River Swimming and Recreation Area, and were honored with an award from the Connecticut River Watershed Council. In truth, they are the ones that deserve the award- they lead the effort to clean up years of accumulated trash in and around the river, and also change the culture, making dumping much less acceptable. It's a pleasure to be part of it!

Social Action

A Social Action Committee meeting is scheduled for Sunday, November 13, after the service, in the sanctuary. Agenda will include planning two fall events regarding immigration justice and human trafficking; updates on refugees and other social justice events in the Valley. Contact Maria Lydia Spinelli spinelliml@gmail.com or just show up.

Fall Interfaith Cot Shelter in Northampton From November to April, the first Thursday of each month, UUSA and South Congregational Church in Amherst cooperate to provide a meal at the Interfaith Cot Shelter in Northampton. If you are interested in joining the team and want more detail, contact Maria Lydia Spinelli, spinelliml@gmail.com, 708-567-1759.

This year, Maria Lydia has also volunteered to provide and serve Thanksgiving dinner at the Interfaith Cot Shelter in Northampton. She notes that this is a personal and not an official UUSA commitment, but she could use some help! If anybody feels like helping serve or cook or donating something please contact Maria Lydia at 708-567-1759 or spinelliml@gmail.com.

Just One Thing On November 13, the second Sunday of the month, a food collection for the Survival Center will occur. As the Thanksgiving and winter holidays approach, families struggle to provide wholesome food for themselves and families. Information about needed items will be in the Bulletin on Sundays in November. A basket is placed in the foyer for these items. For information contact Mary Beth Seminario, mbsem@comcast.net, 413-253-0894.

Community breakfasts Our Community Breakfast on Wednesday is full and the guests are happy to enjoy a cup of coffee or orange juice, cereal, toast and a hot plate of food in our Social Hall. Although it is a simple meal, volunteers are needed each week to wrap the pastries, put out the food, crack the eggs, refill the coffee urns and the OJ pitchers.

Can you sign up for an hour before you go to work or school? We start at 6:00 A.M. and all skill levels are welcome.

Thanks to Vicki Hinson-Smith who greets each week and also to Karen Fisk, Julie Webster, Gabriela Horvay, Darcy DuMont, Elizabeth DuMont-McCaffrey, Brenda Miller, Polly Peterson, Fran Plumer, Bo Mack. Interdenominational Affairs

The annual Interfaith Thanksgiving Service that is offered by the Amherst Area Clergy Group will be held this year on November 22, 2016 at 7:00 P.M. at the Methodist Church in Hadley (across from the UMass horse barns on North Maple Street.).

ION Corner The Interfaith Opportunities Network usually meets on the first Wednesday of the month, rotating meeting places among members' places of worship. Our October 5 meeting was held at the Marian Center in Holyoke where one of our members, a nun with the Daughters of the Heart of Mary, resides. At our meeting we shared information about special holidays of various faiths and postponed a decision about who would get the Joan Lindeman award for special work in an interfaith project. After the regular meeting, The Rev. Warren Savage led a Mass during which he explained the meaning of its different parts and talked about the similarity between the Mass and various worldwide religions. He included the ongoing problems in the world and our country as he talked. As someone raised in the Catholic faith, I was most impressed by his ecumenical and practical approach.

Your ION representative, Mary Beth Seminario
